PREFACE

AFTER several months of pleasant labor intermingled with most agreeable associations, we submit without an apology the Standard Blue Book of Texas, but in doing so we desire to emphatically state it has not been our object to cover in detail every part of this great State from a social or a commercial viewpoint, or to give a place therein to every eligible and trustworthy citizen. This would be impossible, as the book would be too voluminous for general circulation. Its size would be uninviting for the financier or man of business affairs, hence we have adopted the plan of restricting the size of this and all of our Blue Book Publications. We have, however, extended invitations to a large number of trustworthy citizens of Texas to assist us in making this work worthy of this Imperial State, and we take pleasure in stating that those found herein socially and commercially are worthy of any trust and stand pre-eminent in their various lines of industry and profession as unselfish, progressive and patriotic citizens. Our second edition will contain the commercial and social exploitation of the various cities of Texas that are omitted from this work.

Our plan of bringing together and blending the social and commercial conditions of a community and State into a happy, entertaining and attractive volume is original and unique, and we believe to be the most effective and powerful method extant of presenting the actual conditions of a State or a Nation to the world.

POWERFUL ADVERTISING MEDIUM.

This edition was limited not to exceed eighty pages, to make the book exclusive, admitting only such persons, firms or corporations as could establish a record for integrity and honesty and whose express purposes were clearly and substantially trustworthy and honest. Thorough investigations were specifically made in each and every instance as regards both the advertiser and the advertisement.

Standing behind this section is the guarantee of A. J. Peeler & Co., the publishers, that individual investigation has been made with unfaltering exactness and that every person contained in this section is deserving of public confidence.

Our best effort is given to present to the world a good, clean, reliable, trustworthy publication, free from photos, writeups and cheap flattery, for which a compensation is paid. An unselfish, patriotic devotion to the best interest of a City or State creates at home and abroad the most powerful impressions upon the minds of the people, and in the end, the best publicity is that publicity which betters economic conditions, increases trade, enhances property values and insures general prosperity. THE STANDARD BLUE BOOK DOES THIS.

AS AN AUTHORITY.

The Standard Blue Book publications are accepted as an authority and as a reliable guide by bond brokers, banking institutions, public service corporations, the homeseeker, investor, tourist and capitalist, and has proven a powerful medium in upbuilding the community, introducing one section of the State, their people and industries to the other and in placing business interests in touch with capital seeking investment. It can readily be seen that we have diverged from all stereotyped methods in the plan and have blazed out unaided thought virgin forests in hope of new discoveries in ideas and methods, seeking to bring together, if possible, a happy combination of the social and poetic side of life, intermingled and blended with the prosaic conditions of commercialism and wealth into a happy union—a crystallized charm of entertaining reflection and study as well as a peerless and powerful advertising medium. This work will be invaluable to the merchant, the banker, the manufacturer and the business house of every nature as the only direct, permanent, reliable method of reaching the wealth and culture of a community, section, State or Nation.

INDISPENSABLE TO THE HOME.

We have incorporated in this work such matter as will make it indispensable to the home as a constant reference book, and it will there occupy the same relative position as the city directory does in the business world, as well as a financial and exclusive social guide book.

President and Editor-in-Chief Standard Blue Book Publications of the United States of America, issued by A. J. Peeler & Co., authors, sole owners, proprietors and publishers The Standard Blue Book of Texas 1914-15, The Standard Blue Book of California 1913-14, The Standard Blue Book of Oregon 1913-14, The Standard Blue Book of Oklahoma 1910-11, The Standard Blue Book of Tennessee 1911-12, The Standard Blue Book of Arkansas 1911-14, The Standard Blue Book of Houston, Texas 1907, The Standard Blue Book of Beaumont, Texas, 1908-09, The Standard Blue Book on East Texas 1909-10, The Standard Blue Book of Dallas and trade territory 1912-14, etc., etc.

The Memphis News-Scimitar of Memphis, Tenn., of date January 23, 1910, in referring to Col. Peeler, says: "He is an industrial and social exponent, as applied to the development of trade conditions of international reputation. In appreciation of his ability along these lines, he was placed upon the National Pay Roll by Sr. Genl. Don Porfirio Diaz, the great Military Ruler of our sister Republic. He has served as a Presidential Toastmaster, is a University (Texas) graduate and a retired bank president, and for eighteen years has been a close student of industrial development and has dedicated his life to this work."

The Standard Blue Book Publications have influenced investments, estimated at two hundred million dollars within the last ten years and they bear the endorsement and approval of many of the most important railway systems, commercial organizations, business men, banking houses, educational institutions and social organizations throughout the United States. ## PREFACE

PICTORIAL AND SOCIAL SECTION.

Our Standard Blue Book publications are fashioned after the Blue Books issued by the United States Government on trade conditions, blended with the improved idea of Who's Who in America and the Social Blue Book of European countries with harmonious perfection.

The social section of the Standard Blue Book of Texas, like all of our other city, State and National publications, is held primarily above monetary consideration in its compilation and preparation, and meritorious citizenship is first and foremost considered.

Every personal illustration contained in this work of prominent club, musical, literary, social, professional and commercial leaders of the State was selected under the advice of an advisory board, and the pretentious and mediocre were excluded.

We have eliminated from the Standard Blue Book publications, with but rare exceptions, personal sketches, reserving the right only to preserve historical data in perpetuating some distinguished pioneer citizen whose life is a part of the history of the country.

No space rates were charged for any personal photographic illustration in any of the Standard Blue Book publications, but, to insure insertion, all photographs and engravings were furnished without cost to the publishers.

We properly and justly recognize unselfish and patriotic assistance given us in making this work a success in behalf of civic, social and industrial pride in the State's best interest by dedicating a conspicuous part of the Blue Book for the enrollment of such names of the citizens of Texas to whom honors are meritoriously due.

COMMANDING INFLUENCE.

The rapid industrial, educational and social development of Texas demands the production in permanent form, from time to time, of a correct account of the statistical progress, professional, commercial, educational, musical and social advantages and club life of its various cities, portraying therein the names and faces of men and women who have assisted materially in the general welfare and progress of the country and whose lives have stood for the highest order of enlightened progress.

To encourage a better class of permanent citizenship and to gain the confidence of foreign capital, and interest it in our prolific opportunities, it is just as necessary to show the refinement and stability of a community as it is to give statistical data setting out strictly the commercial advantages.

NATIONAL RECORD AND FAMILY HISTORY.

Then again, outside of all business considerations, this work in years to come will be prized beyond a money value as a National record and family history, giving the living a lasting pleasure in commemorating the names and faces of those loved ones long since passed away to the Great Beyond, and serving as a tribute of respect to those who have done their part faithfully and well in the race and progress of human life.

SUCCESS IS DUE.

If we have achieved any measure of success in the issuance of this edition, we want to take this opportunity to say that our success is due in part to the useful, unselfish and progressive citizens, corporations and business firms of Texas whose names are found in the Who's Who, advertising and pictorial sections of this volume. Without this aid and unqualified support, zeal and unselfish, patriotic devotion to their city and State, such an undertaking would have been on our part, the wildest folly.

A Successful Citizen of Texas—A Unique PersonalityBy A. J. PEELERMR. GEO. W. BRACKENRIDGE

A man of many parts. To the casual observer he is two distinct men. As the business man, restless, aggressive, quick of perception, analytical, a piece of superb mechanism in perfect motion. The mantle lifted, which few have opportunity to see or know, we find the kind, generous, big-hearted, self-sacrificing, sympathetic man, the citizen, George W. Brackenridge.

IMPERIAL TEXAS

By Z. T. FULMORE, Austin, Texas.

TEXAS is the largest in area, ranks fifth in population, and is one of the wealthiest States in the Union. Her assessed values for State taxation in 1913 being in excess of $2,670,000,000. Brownsville, its southernmost city, is 279 miles farther south than New Orleans, and 142 farther south than Tampa, Florida. Its northern boundary is the old Missouri Compromise line of 36-30, the most southern line of Missouri.

From El Paso on the West to Texarkana on the east is about 75 miles farther than from Texarkana to Asheville, North Carolina.

From the Gulf northwestwardly it ascends to an elevation of 4,300 feet on the plains and west of the Pecos River to an average elevation of over 5,000 feet, the highest mountain peak, Guadalupe, being 9,500 feet above sea level. The mean average elevation of the State is 1,760 feet.

The mean average rainfall begins with about 57 inches in the extreme east and gradually decreases westwardly until it is below ten inches at El Paso. The mean annual temperature falls from about 75½ degrees in Starr County to 54½ in Dallam County, or about the same as from Jacksonville, Florida, to Boston, Massachusetts.

The forested area corresponds with the rainfall, beginning with the long leaf pine and cypress of the southeast, and short leaf pine of the northeast and extending westwardly through a region of post oak, hickory, ash, walnut and other hardwoods to the black prairie region, which with the exception of scattered clumps of live oak on the prairie and cottonwood and pecan along the streams, is without timber. West of the west line of the black prairie region is much timber, but with the exception of the cedars, the pecan and other timber along the streams, there is practically no timber except for fuel.

There are about 167,000,000 acres of land in the State and about one-ninth of this is in improved cultivated farms and nearly three-fourths is under fence.

The value of the agricultural products exceeds that of any State in the Union. The product of cotton for 1912, being over 35 per cent of all produced in the United States and having a value estimated by the United States Department of Commerce and Labor at $361,000,000. The corn product varies from year to year from about 80,000,000 to over 200,000,000 bushels, the average rank among the great corn producing States being fifth.

Wheat, oats, rye, barley, broom corn, milo maize, kaffir corn, buckwheat and rice are also produced in the State, her rice product being more than 40 per cent of all raised in the United States.

Sugar, molasses, sorghum, tobacco, peanuts and hay, including alfalfa, are also produced. There are over forty varieties of vegetables produced, including Irish and sweet potatoes and melons.

Apples, peaches, plums, apricots, oranges, lemons and figs supply the markets of this and other States as do also strawberries and other small fruits.

Among other products are nuts, the most valuable being the pecan, more than one-half of all in the United States being raised in Texas. Hickory nuts are also an article of commerce. There is an abundant home supply of Persian walnuts and black walnuts.

Among the dairy products are milk, butter, cheese and honey. The milk and butter products are valued at $15,679,924 by the United States Census reports of 1910, during which year the honey products of about two-thirds of the State was 3,093,097 pounds. The value by the same census of the poultry and egg products was $17,261,108.

Texas is pre-eminently a livestock State. In horses and mules, cattle, angora goats, and asses, she easily leads the other States and in hogs and sheep takes a leading place.

The mineral resources of the State are great, but as yet little exploited. Among the most important that are begun to be exploited are petroleum, lime, hydraulic and Portland cement, salt, granite, sulphur, cinnabar (quicksilver), natural gas, limestone, mineral water, clay and lignite. Kaolin exists in large quantities, but for lack of transportation facilities has not been exploited. Other minerals are bat guano, asphalt, sandstone, iron ore, gypsum, silver and gold, all of which have been sufficiently tested to prove the value of their deposits.

COMMERCE.

The great bulk of transportation is carried on by the railways which have a mileage of over 15,000, the largest of any State in the Union, or about one mile for every 17 square miles of area and 266 inhabitants.

There are 519 National banks in the State having resources of $393,916,218.79, and individual deposits subject to check of $185,249,753, and 856 State banks with resources valued at $151,620,342 and individual deposits subject to check of $100,224,413. Besides these, there are many private banks and trust companies. An enormous amount of exchange business is carried on by the post office and express companies and other agencies. Telegraph and telephone facilities permeate the entire State.

EDUCATION.

When Texas joined the Union in 1845, she reserved all her public domain. Of this 32,480,000 acres has been donated to railroads, or sixteen sections to the mile up to 1881; 49,034,155 acres was given to the common schools, 2,221,400 to the State University, 4,339,440 to the Counties as a local fund, 100,000 each to the Asylum, Deaf and Dumb, Blind and Orphan Asylum, 4,334,960 acres to improve her navigable rivers, 560,000 to irrigation enterprises, 107,520 to manufacturing enterprises and 1,706,440 to her indigent Confederate Veterans. The permanent income-bearing school fund is now about $75,000,000. The State in addition to the income from this fund levies a tax of 16 2-3 cents on the $100 valuation of property and this with local taxation gives an annual income for the support of schools, about $13,000,000. The State owns over $20,000,000 in school buildings, grounds and equipments. The State borders on Mexico, of which it was once a part, for 1,000 miles and has a sea frontage of over 400 miles. Her three largest cities, San Antonio, Dallas and Houston, have each a population of over 100,000. The banking capital of Houston is larger than that of New Orleans, that of Dallas larger than that of either South Carolina, Arkansas or Mississippi. Galveston is second only to New York in the value of exports and imports in the United States. There are thirty-six towns and cities in the State having a population of over 5,000.

HISTORY.

Texas was first seen and traveled over in 1528, 36 years after Columbus discovered America, and during the reign of Henry VIII of England and Charles V of Spain—a quarter of a century before Shakespeare was born and two centuries before George Washington first saw the light. For about 300 years, it was a dependency of Spain, but within that period little was done towards settlement or development. Mexico rebelled in 1810 and after a long succession of military campaigns and guerilla warfare, gained her independence in 1821, and in 1824 organized as a Republic and Texas and Coahuila became one State in that Republic.

At the time Mexico became a Republic liberal colonization laws were enacted and the Anglo-American began to settle within the borders of Texas. He fought his own battles against the savages without the aid of the government. In 1830 the ruling authority at the City of Mexico began a series of tyrannical acts toward Texas and in 1832 came the first open resistance. Fortunately for Texas, one of those periodical revolutions took place which changed rulers and Texas was quiet so far as the Mexican government was concerned for a year or two.

But the new government following in the footsteps of the old, soon overthrew the Republican Constitution, subdued State after State in Mexico, and in 1835 sent its armies into Texas. The Texans rose in revolt in October, and before the first of the succeeding January, had driven every Mexican soldier out of Texas. A much larger army came from Mexico early in 1836, butchered the garrison at the Alamo March 6th, and March 19th the Texas forces at Goliad surrendered and on the 27th were cruelly massacred. The Texans then organized another force under Sam Houston. This force retreated eastward until it reached the San Jacinto River. There the Texans attacked the Mexicans and overwhelmed them, capturing Santa Anna, the President and Dictator of Mexico.

The Texans then organized a regular government, the Lone Star Republic, which was regularly administered until it was annexed to the United States in December, 1845.

From a population of about 150,000 in 1845, the State grew to have a population of 604,215 in 1860. The State in 1861 seceded from the Union, cast her fortune with the Southern Confederacy, and with her Southern sisters, went down in that conflict in 1865. She re-entered the Union in 1870 and began her career under changed conditions. Her property values in the meantime having decreased from $294,315,650 in 1860, to $170,473,778 in 1870. It was not, however, until the year 1880 when the era of railroad building began that the modern Texas put off the old and put on the new. The ox wagon, the stage coach, the old log cabin, the ferry, the buffaloes and the Indians all disappeared before the end of the year 1885. The railroads then connected the distant parts of the State with each other, the barb wire fence revolutionized the livestock industry and the great pine forests of East Texas became accessible to all parts of the State and the people became, as it were, a great social and political unit.

Within that period (1880-1885) the State erected a magnificent new Capitol, established the State University which has now an attendance of over 2,000, amended the State Constitution, thus paving the way for a great system of public education which now furnishes free tuition to nearly 1, 000,000 children. Began the establishment of Normal Schools. Another amendment provided for taxation for road and bridge purposes and every stream in the State was provided with an iron or stone bridge and millions of dollars expended in the improvement to highways. The progress of the State since 1906 has been great. More than 1,000,000 persons have been added to the population and the assessed values have advanced from $1,221,159,869 to over $2,670,000,000.

Ninety-two and one-half per cent of the population are white people, and only 7.3 per cent are foreign born, of which more than three fourths are Mexicans. Eighty per cent of the white people are of native parentage.

The great bulk of the population is descended from a class characterized by Theodore Roosevelt as follows:

"The warlike borderers who thronged across the Alleghenies, the restless and reckless hunters, the hard, dogged, frontier farmers by dint of grim tenacity overcame and displaced Indians, French and Spaniards alike, exactly as, fourteen hundred years before, Saxon and Anglo had overcome and displaced the Cymric and Gaelic Celts.

"They warned and settled from the high hill valleys of the French Broad and the Upper Cumberland to the half-tropical basin of the Rio Grande, and to where the Golden Gate lets through the long-heaving waters of the Pacific.

The Fathers followed Boone, or fought at King's Mountain; the sons marched south with Jackson to overcome the Creeks and beat back the British; the grandsons died at the Alamo, or charged to victory at San Jacinto. They were doing their share of a work that began with the conquest of Britain, that entered on its second and wider period after the defeat of the Spanish Armada, that culminated in the marvelous growth of the United States."

The Panama Canal Will Recast The Trade Route Of Both Hemispheres And Make Texas The Terminal Station Of The World's Traffic

By J. A. ARNOLD,

Manager Texas Business Men's Association.

HE output of the Mississippi Basin will be diverted from Eastern and Western to Southern gateways and a stream of golden products will pour through the Texas ports to the markets of the world. Our sea stations will become the greatest traffic-producing ports of the world, and they will become a port of call for all vessels of Northern Europe and the Far East. The ships that are engaged in this traffic will secure return cargoes of tropical fruits and other products from South and Central American ports, which will also be delivered to the railroads at the Texas ports. Return cargo is the most important factor in the successful operation of steamship service and tonnage in both directions is practically assured Texas-Panama steamers.

The magic touch of its influence will quicken the farm, mine and factory life of Texas, and the inland empire that lies beyond our borders by bringing the Pacific markets within our trade zone.

The Panama Canal will become the greatest development agency in the history of the world.

It will arouse the Orient from its slumber; awaken the Southern Hemisphere to industrial achievement and will flash rays of light over the dark continent, and Texas is strategically located to receive the first benefit of the large opportunities which the canal produces.

The canal forces a readjustment of the trade relations between continents and a realignment of the world advantages in commerce, assigning to Texas a lion's share of the new opportunities. It is now a question of our people grasping the new condition now confronting us or letting the opportunities that the opening of the world's gateway of trade gives us go by default.

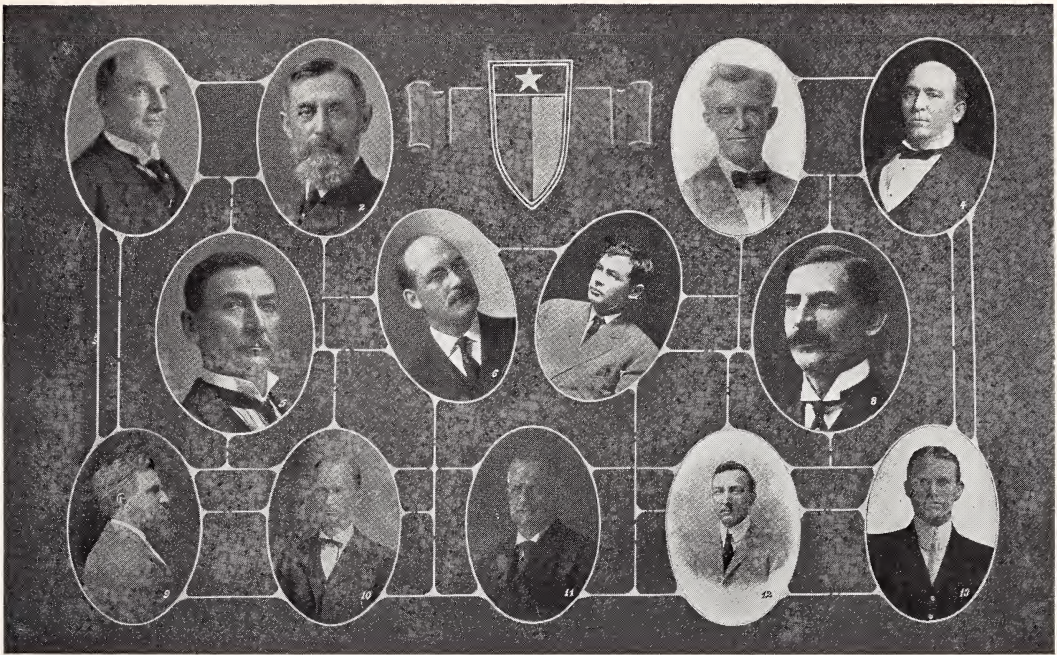

Texas is already a world's factor in trade, as we excel in many industrial achievements and natural endowments all other countries on the globe. We will mention a few of them—we lead the world in the production of cotton; we have the largest cotton seaport in the world; the world's leading crude oil exporting port; the largest farmers' organization on the face of the earth, and the largest United States Army Post is within our borders. Texas is the leading cattle raising unit in the world and our undeveloped agricultural resources are not excelled by any country on the face of the earth.

In many ways Texas is clearly asserting her claims and definitely outlining her policies for securing her portion of the new traffic. Every twenty-four hours a new mile of railroad is being constructed and $40,000 per day is being expended on the highways of the State. In interurban building we are leading the Nation. Within the past three years, or since it has been definitely known that the Panama Canal would be a success, Texas has built more than a thousand miles of railroads and now has the greatest steam road mileage of any State in the Union. There are more than 60,000 miles of railways tributary to the ports of Texas and 15,000 of this amount is within the borders of Texas. The Texas Coast Line is the longest of any of the Atlantic States and ranks second with all States in the Union. There are more than 2,000 miles of inland waterways in Texas and many of them are susceptible to navigation. New steamship companies are being organized frequently and the establishment of new steamship lines, which are of equal importance to transportation as the construction of a new railroad, has become a common occurrence. There are now fifty steamship lines that make Texas ports on regular schedule. Texas has one of the few free ports of the universe.

The distance from the geographical center of the United States to the ports of Texas average 770 miles and it is 1,800 miles further by water to the entrance of the Panama Canal. The haul from the geographic center of the United States to New York and other ports on the North Atlantic Coast is approximately 1,000 miles, and from New York to the Canal Zone it is about 2,300 miles. By patronizing Texas ports, the distance from the center of the United States to the Panama Canal is lessened by more than 700 miles and this material difference is bound to operate to the advantage of the Texas ports.

When compared with other great ports of the world, none possess better opportunities for facilitating shipping than those of Texas. Probably no other seaport in the world possesses in so phenomenal degree so many natural advantages and latent resources for the development of the great commercial mart as that of the ports of Texas.

THE TEXAS OYSTER

By W. W. Wood, Rockport, Texas.

VERY few people of Texas understand the oyster conditions. This is the reason there has been so many failures in the growing of oysters. It is like everything else—a person must make a study of it to make a success. Oysters will not grow on all kinds of bottoms, but demand a firm soil, free from soft mud and shifting sand. To select an oyster location a person must know the character of the bottom of the bays and the conditions in general so as to be able to select proper planting grounds, which is most essential in the planting of oysters.

If the beds are properly arranged with the use of shell, crushed rock, old iron, bones or brush mattresses, it will be a success—if not, the spat settling down on soft mud or shifting sand, is doomed to inevitable destruction.

The spawning of the oyster consists of the discharge of eggs from the female and spermatozoa from the male to meet and fuse in the surrounding waters. The fertilized eggs develop into minute embryos, each furnished with a little brush of cilia, or hair-like processes, which vibrate in rhythm and propel it feebly through the water. After a time, varying with the temperature of the water, the embryos develop tiny shells which, by its weight, eventually precipitates them to the bottom. If they fall upon a suitable clean, firm support, they attach and grow into spat; if not, they die. The wide distribution of the young oysters in the swimming stage is dependent upon the currents.

The oyster feeds upon minute bodies by straining them through its sieve-like gills from the same water which it utilizes in respiration. Its food is carried on to its mouth by the currents of the bays.

Enemies of the oyster are the black drum, skate and stone crab. A drum or skate can crush any size oyster and they are the most destructive to oysters on the Texas Coast. They are more destructive upon the planted oyster than upon the natural reefs. The better shaped oyster the more liable it is to attack. The drum and skate feed upon their prey by grinding up shell and flesh by means of the molar teeth, which roof and floor their mouths. They will not feed upon coon oysters, as they are in large clusters and are very sharp and difficult for the drum and skate to crush them without suffering serious injury.

If the people of Texas would take up the growing of oysters and manage it as they would any other business, it could be made one of the largest industries in Texas in the course of a few years.

One of the most productive reefs in Texas was Tiger Island Reef, in Matagorda Bay. In the years 1890 and 1891, steamships "Effort," Elick McKappon, master, and the "Cumberland," R. Carroll, master, ran oysters from Tiger Island Reef to Galveston, Texas, twice a week, carrying 800 barrels a trip. This reef is about one-fourth mile square, and at that time produced about 2,000 barrels a week. Part of these oysters were marketed at Port Lavaca, Corpus Christi, Rockport and other parts of the State. The oysterman at that time culled and bedded all oysters and marketed them as the market demanded.

The oystermen had to build net pens around the bedded oysters to protect them from the drum and skate, as they would destroy a whole cargo in twenty-four hours.

Stanley Lowander, of Greenport, L. I., was at one time the largest oyster grower in the world. He was reported to have made $8,000,000 in the oyster growing business.

Texas has some of the finest oyster reefs in the United States. To drop a few oysters in a location and leave to grow, is time and money thrown away. It requires experience and time to make a success in growing oysters, and must be watched if success is expected. Oysters to be fattened properly should never be allowed to grow in large clusters. An oyster will mature in from one and one-half to two years, owing to the conditions of the weather. With heavy rains they will mature a great deal sooner. The heaviest spawning of the oysters begin in April and May.

Educational Advantages and Intellectual Advance of Texas

By MISS BESSIE SAVAGE,

Associate Society Editor Standard Blue Book of Texas.

Underlying the great commercial and industrial movements, which during the past two decades have revolutionized this land of ours, is a stronger, subtler force, the power of thought developed, the advance of Texas Intellectual. This is, of all our material progress and greatness, the reason for the reason, the cause within the cause, and in proportion as this power shall grow and increase, so shall all else of which our State can boast.

Intimately interwoven with the political history of Texas in the history of public education. In the early twenties of the last century, Stephen F. Austin, the father of Texas, caused a little school to be established in his colony on the Colorado, and from that date when boys armed with blue-backed speller, tin bucket and a hatchet to blaze the way through the forest, entered that primitive structure, statesmen have been mindful of that great need until today. Schools, the pride of village, town and city, rise on every hand. Apart from the appropriation and apportionment made by city, county and State, Texas can boast of such men as George W. Brackenridge, to whose noble work in behalf of education thousands can attest with feeling. The extent of his generous gifts for the building and upbuilding of State institutions will never be known. Texas can boast amongst her educators men and women schooled and experienced in the old world and the new, whose constant effort is that all forms of knowledge now and ever shall be to the people of Texas in no wise a fountain sealed.

The State University in its several branches, literary, science and law at Austin, medical and surgical at Galveston, agricultural and mechanical at Bryan, industrial at Denton, with the various normals, including the Prairie View Normal for negro teachers, are among the State's institutions that meet specific needs.

One of the latest and greatest of our educational institutions is Rice Institute in Houston, which ranks in the character and scope of its training with the historic schools of the East.

Texas' thinkers along educational lines have never stood still, profiting both by successes and failures they have dared to do.

Schools, convents, colleges and universities other than those under State supervision bless our land with their inspiring stimulus and noble products. Herein the courtesies and niceties of life are happily commingled with the culture of fine arts, literary and scientific attainments, physical, mental and spiritual development.

When the opening of the great Canal shall have revolutionized our commercial history and our fair land teems with incoming thousands from the uttermost parts of the earth, the schools of Texas, in keeping with their past, will nobly meet every need of human development, advancing ever toward the attainment of the perfect man.

In the realm of fine arts as well as in scientific and literary fields Texas men and women have made wonderful achievements. Prof. Eagleton of Sherman, has recently compiled a volume of literature from Texas writers which has caused the world to marvel at the wealth of talent.

Truly we of the Lone Star State have good reason to thrill with pride of achievement which is but a foretaste of the age upon which we are just entering.

Jewish Population—Their Assistance in the Progress of Texas

By MRS. E. F. VON TROTHA

ISRAEL ZANGWILL, the most famous story teller of the Ghetto, has said that the Jewish religion may survive, but the Jewish Nation died the day the revolution broke down the bars which separated the Jews and the Christians; that they only aspire to merge into the general masses and to be absorbed and assimilated by them. Instead of being absorbed, the Jews have made and are making themselves a power to be felt in America. Their history is so interwoven with that of America that it is impossible to name any great epoch without a picture of the noble deeds of some member of this race rising before the mind's eye.

It was to the Jews of Portugal and Spain who had been delving into the theories of Ptolemy, the great Greek-Egyptian, to whom Isabella of Spain went to procure the financing of Columbus' voyage seeking a "new route to India." The superintendent of the expedition was a Jew, as was also the physician and surgeon, and the interpreter, and it is more than probable that many of the crew whom history has not named were members of the Jewish race.

It was a Jew, Rodrigo de Triano, who first gave the cry of "Land, Ho!" when the little ship first hove in sight of San Salvador, and it can be historically proven that it was a Jew who was the first white man to set foot upon American possessions.

The persecutions in Europe were so great that many religious Jews flocked into the new Spanish possessions of Mexico, and thence into Texas, then the New Philippines. The names of many Spanish Jews may be found in the personnel of the commands of the Presidio of San Fernando, which stood on the present site of the San Antonio Military Plaza.

It was a Jew who was interpreter and alcalde during the Fredonian war, and it was also another member of this race who settled San Augustine, and afterwards had the honor of furnishing equipment to the volunteers during the war with Mexico.

The Surgeon-General of Sam Houston's army was a Jew, who was present at the storming of the Alamo, as were other men of like nationality whose names are inscribed on the Alamo monument at Austin—brave men whose blood ran with that of Texans in that world famous battle.

The first Jewish settlers came to Texas with Stephen A. Austin's colony in 1821, and under the old regime many of them held positions of great honor.

The Jews of Texas served valiantly under both flags during the Civil war, answering the call to arms again during the Spanish-American war, in the country of their adoption, as did the hosts of Israel in the days of yore, without question.

It was a Jew who first advocated the loaning of school funds and donating public lands for the building of railroads, while to another is due the first hospital founded in Texas—at Velasco.

The Jewish communal life is first established by the purchase of a cemetery and next a synagogue and from this small beginning has grown beautiful synagogues, well kept cemeteries, orphan asylums, homes for the aged and many other public institutions.

As adjuncts to the synagogues are the benevolent societies and ladies' aids, in which Jewish women have part and parcel, stretching out a hand to the needy and aiding wherever possible. They have donated largely not only for sectarian institutions, but have given freely at every worthy call—of the funds which the land of their adoption has given them, and all Texas has benefited thereby.

Jewish women have occupied no small part in the upbuilding of the country. In no country in the world can there be found more beautiful, cultured, refined and talented women than can be found in the Jewish society of the various Texas cities.

In point of courage, moral or intellectual worth, of mental requirements, they yield precedence to none; they have been faithful subjects during times of severe trial at home and abroad, their loyalty has never wavered. Who then is better fitted to appear in this work on Imperial Texas than those who have helped to steer the ship of state to safe anchor through turbulent storms of war, those whose blood has darkened the green sward in her honor—the Jews of Texas?

SAN ANTONIO—WHERE EAST MEETS WEST

By SAN ANTONIO CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

SAN ANTONIO with a population of over 115,000 people, according to United States Census Bureau figures recently issued, easily holds its title as the metropolis of Texas and the Southwest country, and it is in this city with its semi-Latin atmosphere that it can be said that the East meets the West. It is here where an average of 35,000 or 40,000 tourists come annually and find health and delight in the bright sunshine, the rare atmosphere and the cooling breezes from the Gulf of Mexico.

The metropolis of Texas is built upon an historic foundation and this element stands out prominently today, adding to the charm and picturesque qualities of the city. Almost two centuries ago, in 1715 to be exact, the city was established by Captain Alonzo de Leon and a little band of hardy Spanish adventurers. It is now not only recognized as one of the most famous tourist and health resorts in the United States, but in the last decade it has taken its place in the first ranks of the manufacturing and jobbing cities of the country and its trade territory extends over a larger area than the entire State of Ohio.

There are countless points of interest in and around San Antonio which instantly appeal to the tourist and visitor. First of all of these is the historic Alamo, the second shrine of the Nation which stands in the very heart of the city itself. It was on this sacred ground in 1836, that Bowie, Crockett and Travis and over four score other heroes gave their lives for Texas liberty and independence. The Alamo chapel is in a splendid state of preservation and is daily visited by hundreds of people.

Next in usual interest come the four ancient Spanish missions which are located on the outskirts of the city and date back as far as 1650. Old San Fernando Cathedral on Main Plaza is another historic edifice and the site of the old Veramenli Palace, the residence of Spanish governors, still attracts attention, although the original structure has long since given away to a modern building.

The entire city is dotted with parks and plazas and Brackenridge Park, a natural woodland is one of the most beautiful in the entire country. The great reservations attached to Fort Sam Houston, the largest army post in the United States, are open to the public at all times and the post is a never failing source of interest.

Various other points of interest in the surrounding country are easily reached by splendid, modernly constructed roads, hundreds of miles of which lead out of the city in every direction. They are a delight to the automobilist and tourist.

To hold up its claims as a manufacturing city, San Antonio boasts of 453 factories which put out finished products valued at $35,567,240 in 1913.

Within the next ten years the city will spend $20,000,000 in civic improvements. This great sum of money has been provided by bond issues and by the one-third and two-thirds improvement plan adopted by the citizens, which means that for every dollar spent by the city administration, the property owners will spend two. Every principal street in the city will be paved, and several of them already have been, and the entire improvement scheme is progressing with a rapidity that is nothing short of marvelous.

SAN ANTONIO PUBLIC SERVICE CORPORATIONS

San Antonio has just cause to be proud of many of its Public Service Corporations. Among those that are more often mentioned as progressive and up-to-date in every respect in giving the very best service to its patrons, is the San Antonio Traction Co. and the San Antonio Gas and Electric Co. The San Antonio Traction Co. has now 80 miles of trackage, most of which is double track. Its 80 cars in daily operation reaches almost every part of the 36 square miles in the City of San Antonio. Recently a reduction was voluntarily made in the price of electricity. This being the second reduction made by this company in the last two years.

DALLAS—THE CITY OF THE HOUR

By DALLAS CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

HAT Dallas is "The City of the Hour" was testified to by the Federal Government in its selection as capital of the Southwestern Federal Banking District. In making this selection, consideration was given solely to the presentation of facts, showing a city's ability to take care of the commercial and financial needs of the territory. Dallas won because the strength and growth of her financial, commercial, transportation and communication facilities indicated she was better able to serve the 5,310,561 people in the district than any other city in the Southwest.

Here will be concentrated banking reserves previously held in St. Louis, Chicago and New York, and a more abundant supply of money for the Southwestern development.

Texas is today the chief agricultural State in the Union, producing farm products worth $685,361,600. Dallas is in the black waxy belt, and 43 per cent of the cotton and 38 per cent of all the farm production of the State is produced within 100 miles of Dallas.

Though fifty-fourth in population (131,278,), Dallas ranks thirty-first in volume of postal receipts ($1,002,043), nineteenth in parcel post business, seventh in express business, and twenty-third in building permits ($8,480,580), with all the cities in the United States. While only one twenty-third as large as Chicago in population, Dallas' jobbing trade was one-eleventh that of Chicago, totaling $211,458,000.

In manufacture, Dallas gained 184 per cent in the last decade and leads the world in the manufacture of saddlery and harness and cotton gin machinery, and all Southwestern cities in volume of factory output.

Dallas people are becoming home owners, 1,475 dwellings erected last year, averaging $2,251 each.

Dallas has a commission form of government, with business administration. Dallas people enjoy abundant pure filtered water, splendid sanitary protection, paved streets, parks, playgrounds, boulevards, and increasing public school facilities. One hundred and eight churches, a class A university, and an annual grand opera season are among the means afforded for personal development. # HOUSTON, TEXAS

THE MANCHESTER OF AMERICA

By JEROME H. FARBAR,

Director of Publicity, Houston Chamber of Commerce

HOUSTON is one of the historic cities of Texas. Named after the illustrious Texas general who won independence for Texas from Mexico by defeating Santa Anna and his Mexican horde the city holds as one of her principal points of interest the famous San Jacinto battle field, the scene of Houston's conquest. It is located on the banks of the Houston Ship Channel and is owned and maintained by the State as a park.

The battle of San Jacinto was fought April 21, 1836. In the same year Houston was founded and in 78 years the foundling has grown to be the largest city in the State and one of the great Southern cities.

Houston's population is today approximately 150,000. This includes all suburbs to which the city limits are being extended. In 1910 the Federal Census gave the city 78,000 in 16 square miles. Since then the city limits have been extended to 35 square miles and the population has been increased accordingly.

Houston is a great railroad center, 17 railroads entering the city. Four railroad systems make headquarters in Houston, the city also being headquarters for the Wells Fargo Express Company, and the Pullman Company.

As the largest inland port cotton market in the world Houston handles over 3,000,000 bales of cotton annually. Houston is an inland port by virtue of the Houston Ship Channel, a natural arm of the sea which has been improved so as to permit of navigation by ocean going vessels. This improvement work was done by the Federal Government under an appropriation of $2,500,000. Free wharfage is forever guaranteed by the City of Houston.

Houston is second to no city in the South in the matter of banking. Her loans and discounts are as large as the largest banking city of the South and her deposits subject to check, totaling over $45,000,000, are the greatest in the State. Wholesale trade amounts to $115,000,000 and retail trade to $60,000,000 annually. As a manufacturing center Houston has about 350 factories, manufacturing 287 different articles and employing over 12,000 workers. Cost of raw material used is estimated at $28,500,000 and the value of the manufactured products at over $52,000,000 annually.

Houston is the center of the Texas oil industry, there being 23 oil corporations with a combined capital stock of $70,000,000 with headquarters in the city. One corporation is capitalized at $50,000,000, being the largest independent oil corporation in this country. Houston is a sugar and rice center, as well as being the distributing point for these commodities. Being in the center of the lumber producing district Houston has 47 corporations engaged in the manufacturing and wholesale lumber trade with a combined capital of $78,000,000. The aggregate volume of business is about $40,000,000 annually.

Commission form of government is employed in Houston, being the second city to adopt it, and applying city methods. Property valuations of the city are about $130,000,000.

Houston is the home of the Rice Institute, founded by the late William Marsh Rice, the endowment fund now totalling over $10,000,000. Thirty-three buildings are proposed in the academic plan, four of which have been completed and two others are under construction. Rice Institute is the seventh richest institution of learning in the United States. It is co-educational, tuition free and is for the advancement of letters, science and arts.

Houston is a home city, some of the most beautiful residences in the South being in many of Houston's beautiful suburbs.

Fort Worth a City of Magic Growth and Phenomenal Opportunities

By FORT WORTH CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

FORT WORTH, by the indomitable energy of its citizenship, and happy selection of site, has become one of the most important cities of Texas. An announcement made by the Census Bureau, from Washington, early in May, 1914, gives it the third rank in population in Texas. In business importance its rank is even higher. Population is stated to be 94,494. Its location frees it from any possibility of troubles inseparable from proximity to river, swamp or low bottom lands subject to overflow. And when to that is added good drainage and an abundant supply of artesian water it is not strange health conditions are good.

Superior to any other Texas city in its railroad facilities it is not surprising that the statement is made by the Joint Car Service that 80 per cent of the freight car interchange of Texas, in and out, is made at Fort Worth. Its railroads, 13 in number with 17 outlets, have large yards and that admits of prompt and economical interchange of loaded freight cars by the full train, if required. That saves both expense and time. The freight interchange at Fort Worth amounts to nearly a million cars annually. By reason of the entrance of so many trunk lines into Fort Worth more stations are reached from Fort Worth on one-line hauls than from any other Texas city. That is an advantage in lessening the freight rate.

Recognizing this pre-eminence the City of Fort Worth has been selected as the site for the quartermaster's supply depot of the United States army operating on the Texas-Mexico border and as a supply depot for the possible operations in Mexico. That is the latest tribute to the superior railroad facilities of Fort Worth.

Another is the establishment of large refining plants at Fort Worth by three oil companies, the Pierce-Fordyce Oil Association, the Gulf Refining Company and the Magnolia Petroleum Company, the latter under construction at this date, May 1, 1914. Combined capacity of the three plants, 31,000 barrels of crude oil daily.

Fort Worth is the only primary grain market in Texas, the headquarters, not merely for the Grain Dealers' Association, but of the grain business of the State. There are 23 wholesale grain dealers in Fort Worth and 17 of them have elevators, the combined storage capacity for grain being 3,750,000.

Its wholesale grocery business is over $7,000,000 and a large business is also done in dry goods and millinery jobbing.

Proximity to the sources of supply and railroad facilities determined the selection of Fort Worth for the location of the big packing houses of Swift and Armour. With the beginning of their work in 1903, dates the phenomenal growth of Fort Worth that gave it a census gain of 175 percent in population in the decade 1900 to 1910. Indications are that that ratio is preserved.

How that location influenced the business of the city is told by a few figures. The entire livestock receipts of the Fort Worth market in 1902 were 60,327; in 1913 the total was 1,973,166. Bank clearings were $74,034,759.91; in 1913 the bank clearings were $418,619,829.81. The packing houses do a business of over $51,000,000 annually and ship more than 18,000 cars of meat from this city. A total of 1,173,539 animals were slaughtered in Texas in 1912, in Federal inspected establishments. Of that number 1,022,321 were slaughtered and inspected at Fort Worth. Daily capacity of the Fort Worth plants is 10,000 hogs, 5,000 cattle, 5,000 calves and 5,000 sheep.

Domestic water supply of the city is artesian of the purest quality and in unlimited quantities.

An excellent school system, most of the school buildings being modern fire-proof construction and a number of special schools, the Texas Christian University, Wesley Women's, College, the great female school for the Educational Commission of the Southern Methodists of the Southwest; the Baptist Southwestern Theological Seminary and training school for women; the Southland University of the Church of the Disciples of Christ, and a number of advance Roman Catholic schools give ample school facilities for the 25,000 or more pupils of the city.

Many churches, representing all denominations, with many active church societies, an active Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. provide for the moral welfare of the people.

There are many social and literary and musical clubs; the latter phases of club life have gained a new impetus since the completion of the Chamber of Commerce Auditorium. This latter building with a seating capacity of 2,500, is the home of the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce and was built especially to provide a suitable meeting place for the many conventions that come to Fort Worth.

Health conditions are excellent.

Fort Worth has 160 miles of paved streets.

Tarrant County will have completed by June 1, a system of new roads, with a maximum best road systems in Texas. These are all connected with the city streets, giving over 333 miles of first-class highway.

WICHITA FALLS, TEXAS

By THE COMMERCIAL CLUB.

WICHITA FALLS is located 114 miles northwest of Fort Worth and 158 miles southwest of Oklahoma City, and there is no other important city for a much greater distance in any other direction. The city has six railroads, radiating in seven directions, and penetrating a rich and rapidly developing territory in Northwest Texas and Southwest Oklahoma. The population of Wichita Falls increased from 2,480 in 1900 to 8,200 in 1910, an increase of 230.62 per cent. The most conservative estimates, substantiated by the city directory and postoffice receipts, as well as by the scholastic census, place the present population at 13,500, a gain of 5,300 during the last three years.

This rapid increase in population, resulting from the development of Wichita Falls and the surrounding country, has been accompanied by a rise in property values. This rise in values, which has made many fortunes, has been so steady and continuous that there is no record of any piece of property being sold for less than was paid for it, when the purchaser exercised the slightest judgment.

The public schools have kept pace with the growth of the town.

Living conditions in Wichita Falls are almost ideal. The climate is most healthy, altitude 958 feet, with very few extremes of temperature. The people enjoy all the facilities of cities twice the size, including ample water supply from Lake Wichita, the largest artificial body of water in the entire Southwest, twenty miles of storm and sanitary sewers, paved business district and additional paving contracted for, fifty miles of concrete sidewalks and street crossings, electric light and power, natural gas for cooking, heating and lighting, electric street car service with seven miles of track, and up-to-the-minute merchants who are prepared to supply all necessities and luxuries at a moment's notice.

About $200,000 have been spent in permanent improvements at Lake Wichita, about five miles from the city, making it one of the most interesting resorts in Texas. The lake is seven miles long and two miles wide, covers 3,200 acres, and affords abundant opportunity for hunting, fishing, boating, camping, and other out-door recreations. This lake is capable of furnishing an adequate water supply for a city of at least 200,000 population.

Wichita Falls has forty manufacturing plants, thirty-five of which have been located there during the last five years.

One of the largest natural gas fields in the United States is found fifteen miles from Wichita Falls. Single wells in this field produce from forty to fifty million cubic feet daily, under a rock pressure of 500 to 700 pounds to the square inch. This gas is supplied to manufacturers at as low as 4 cents per thousand, and is used by residents all over the city. The Electra oil field is located in the western portion of Wichita County. Fifty miles south, with direct railroad connection, is a vast deposit of coal which is being extensively mined and furnished for manufacturing purposes at an extremely low price per ton. With coal, oil and gas at her doors, it would seem that Wichita Falls has an inexhaustible fuel supply, superior to that of any other city in the country. The North Texas Gas Company, one of the two companies selling natural gas in Wichita Falls, is one of the largest distributing companies operating in the State, selling gas in all the principal cities of North Texas. They are supplied from the wells of the Lone Star Gas Company, one of the largest producing companies in the South, having thirty producing wells and a large acreage under lease at Petrolia, eighteen miles east of Wichita Falls.

Wichita Falls' trade territory embraces thirty Texas and Oklahoma counties which in 1910 had a population of 295,555, an increase of 165,588, or 128 per cent over the population in 1900.

Wichita County has excellent roads. The Meridian Road Association has picked its route from Winnipeg to the Gulf through Wichita Falls.

WAXAHACHIE, ELLIS COUNTY, TEXAS

By A. C. PARKER,

Secretary Commercial Club, Waxahachie, Texas.

WAXAHACHIE, County Site of Ellis County, located in the heart of the famous Black Land Belt of Texas, is enjoying an unprecedented growth and prosperity beyond the fondest dreams of the most optimistic. Population: A recent census shows Waxahachie to have over 10,000 people. Scores of homes are in process of erection, and the increase in population is rapid.

Railroads: With the Missouri, Kansas & Texas, the Trinity & Brazos Valley, the Houston & Texas Central Railroads, and also the through line of the Southern Traction Company, extending from Denison to Waco, and with the grade completed for a similar line from Waxahachie to Ferris, this thriving city boasts of unusual railway facilities.

Civic Advantages: About five miles of electric street railway ; one of the finest hotels in Texas; four large banks, with almost $3,000,000 on deposit; Trinity University, one of the leading educational institutions of the South; a magnificent library, the gift of an honored citizen, with an endowment that guarantees its permanency; an abundance of pure artesian water; one of the best lighted cities in Texas; a magnificent gas plant; the Square, all business streets and alleys paved; the important residence streets paved or being paved; one of the largest and best paying cotton mills in Texas; numerous gins and oil mills, elevators and warehouses; a splendid system of city schools; thirteen handsome church buildings, with a combined property of $500,000; elegant business blocks, with uniform sidewalks and awnings; one of the finest court houses in Texas; a magnificent Federal Building; beautiful City Hall, and one of the best equipped Fire Departments of any Texas city; miles of beautiful streets, on either side of which stand elegant and costly homes; progressive business men; refined and ambitious citizens; sanitary city, presided over by competent and far-seeing officials; a city that is known far and wide as one of the most moral and progressive of Texas cities.

Ellis County: With a population of almost 60,000, and with 85 per cent of her land in cultivation, Ellis is the leading agricultural county of Texas, and the banner cotton county of the world. In addition to cotton, her rich lands produce in abundance corn, oats, wheat, alfalfa, milo maize, kaiffir corn, and all kinds of garden and orchard products common to Central and Northern Texas.

Ellis County is a net-work of good piked roads. With her 400 miles of smooth roads, she has not only brought Waxahachie to the front gate of every farmer in the county, but has inspired a score of other counties in Texas to vote good roads bonds.

Her schools are second to none in the State. Her people are thrifty, intelligent and united in every forward movement.

Two big telephone companies and several smaller companies, have their telephones in almost every home in the county. This, with the good roads and splendid schools and churches, makes rural life a real pleasure.

Waxahachie and Ellis County invite people of thrift and ambition to locate in this prosperous place. Factories, manufacturing concerns, wholesale houses and retail establishments of all kinds will do well to investigate Waxahachie. There is no more profitable field of investment in all Texas than Waxahachie and Ellis County.

Mineral Wells, Texas

THE SOUTH'S GREATEST HEALTH AND PLEASURE RESORT.

By THE COMMERCIAL CLUB.

MINERAL WELLS is in a class to itself as an all-the-year-round Health and Pleasure resort—it is something different and better. For a quarter of a century it has been popular as a health resort. It has more tourists and health seekers annually than any city of its size in the world. The number having passed the 150,000 mark several years ago. The city is situated in the mountains of West Texas, at an altitude of 1,400 feet, where malaria and climatic diseases are unknown. The scenery in and around Mineral Wells is as picturesque and beautiful as Nature ever placed before the eye.

The resident population is about 6,000 and the city is modern in every way, having concrete sidewalks and crossings, street cars, electric and gas lights, parks, golf grounds, many beautiful homes, churches, modern schools, clubs, stores, banks, office buildings, etc. There are seventy-five hotels and boarding houses, with ample accommodations for 10,000 guests and the rates are lower than in any first-class resort city in America. The public drinking pavilions and bath houses recently built are the largest and best equipped buildings of their kind on earth.

The waters from the thirty or forty different "wells" which is used is all clear as crystal, sparkling, and pleasant to the taste, which makes it, aside from its wonderful medicinal properties, the purest and best drinking water on earth. The chemical analysis of each of the wells is different, hence the great value of the waters in treating different diseases.

Mineral Wells has the greatest variety of life giving mineral waters in this country; it has been tested and thoroughly tested, for a quarter of a century, in the treatment of many thousands of chronic cases of Rheumatism, Insomnia, Nervousness, Constipation, Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Female Disorders, and all forms of Kidney, Liver, Bladder and Stomach Troubles, and the great number of cures credited to the waters has made it famous as "The Best Water on Earth."

Physicians throughout the country endorse the waters and send thousands of patients here to take the hot mineral baths and drink the waters.

A well known peculiarity of the water is that it destroys the desire for alcoholic stimulants. Recent discoveries show unmistakable proof that the waters are radio-active, in addition to having the properties that make them the world's greatest and best solvent for uric acid.

Hundreds of solid cars of the waters are shipped to distant points in the United States annually. The water shipments from here are greater than from all other wells and springs in Texas combined, and it is the largest mineral shipping point in the South or Southwest.

As a place to spend a vacation for rest, pleasure or health, for Southern people during the summer and early fall months and for Northern people during the winter and early spring months, Mineral Wells is the most popular and largely patronized resort in the entire Southwest. It is a city dedicated to tourists and health seekers, and there has been provided here a combination of "good things" unequaled by any similar resort in this country. The summer nights are always cool, and there are no mosquitoes. This, with the famous "sleepy waters," makes Mineral Wells the ideal place to rest and thoroughly enjoy a vacation.

After a thorough investigation of various cities throughout the South, from Atlantic to Pacific, Chas. A. Comiskey, President of the Chicago White Sox Baseball Club, selected Mineral Wells as their training ground, and after training here for the first time in the spring of 1911 he said, "I have tried California and I have tried Mexico, but the most favored of all the spots in these two parts of the world can not rival Mineral Wells."

The words "Vacation" and "Mineral Wells" are linked together in the minds of countless thousands, so that they never think of going anywhere else for "repairs" or a vacation. You will always feel that you have "missed" something until you come to the "City of Radium Waters." Come now, and in the future it will be a habit with you, as with many others.

ABILENE AND TAYLOR COUNTY, TEXAS

By JESSE CANNON, Abilene, Texas.

ABILENE is the County Seat of Taylor County, located 161 miles west of Fort Worth, and has an elevation of 1,750 feet above sea level. It is unsurpassed anywhere in physical and moral healthfulness. Abilene has a population of 12,000. Abilene has besides the Texas & Pacific Railway, the Abilene & Southern to the south, and the Wichita Valley on the north. It is the largest town and the most important trading point, not only in Taylor County, but the largest town between Fort Worth and El Paso. The city is composed of a very enterprising population, from all States in the Union.

Abilene is geographically located in the central part of Texas, within the center of an agricultural territory, where the natural advantages and conditions favor the building of a large city. It has direct outlet to the gulf, to the Pacific, and to the Northern and Eastern cities.

One of the marked characteristics of those who are engaged in business in the city is that they are proud of their town, and of the section tributary to it, and are loyal to both. Then, too, there are no local factions, all hands work together for the general good, and do so most harmoniously. Let any public enterprise be inaugurated, and there is no pulling back on their part, but as a rule each one steps forward promptly, willing and ready, even anxious to do his part. Taken as a whole, our people are genial, hospitable, cultured, sociable and law abiding, and will compare favorably with those of any section of Texas, or indeed of the United States in point of intelligence, refinement, morality, and patriotism. Abilene has no saloons, and the sentiment of its people is overwhelmingly in favor of prohibition, and local option is still, and promises to permanently remain in force. On account of these facts we have a good school town.

This is a delightful climate, mild winters, and the summers are pleasant, with a little breeze that makes one feel like life is worth living. Our nights are pleasant, never too warm to have a good night's rest.

Abilene has good buildings, paved streets, street cars, a good water system, with the very best of water, and grounds are bought for another lake as necessity requires. We will have natural gas in Abilene in a few weeks, which will solve the fuel question, and give us even better lighted streets than we now have, if it is possible to do so. Our streets are well lighted at present with electric lights.

Abilene is on the Southern National Highway which goes from ocean to ocean. And an air-line has been logged going from north to south, which will connect with the Colorado to the Gulf Highway.

The city has four public school buildings at a cost of $175,000, furnished with equipment of $25,000. We have Simmons College, Abilene Christian College, the Cooper Training School for Boys, Draughton's Business College, and a number of private schools. Simmons College buildings and grounds are valued at $250,000, with a new administration building just completed at a cost of $50,000. Abilene Christian College has nice grounds and improvements, and will make some very extensive improvements this year. The Cooper Training School for Boys has nice grounds and an up-to-date building. All of these schools have superior faculties—none better anywhere.

The ladies of this city have for years, enjoyed the pleasures and benefits of six literary clubs.

There is now being erected in Abilene a $150,000 County court house, which will be up-to-date in all its equipment.

Abilene is a town of churches. $140,000 has been paid out in the last few years on church buildings, and we have as good church buildings as any town of the same population. All together we have ten denominations represented with nineteen places of worship. We have a Federal Building, United States Weather Bureau, Carnegie Library and State Epileptic Colony.

Abilene is sure to make a city of Central West Texas. The investor needs only to plant his capital in Abilene to reap a satisfactory return therefor. We have seven macadamized roads leading out in every direction in Taylor County, which are being connected up with the paved streets of Abilene. This brings the farmer in closer touch with his trading point, giving him quicker service to market his products, and also adds value to his farm lands. Farm products of Taylor County are cotton, wheat, oats, barley, rye, sorghum, milo maize, kaffir corn, and feterita, a new feed which has been introduced here, and is quite a success.

This is a good fruit and vegetable country, almost everything can be raised here. The last few months we have had about 18 inches of rain, which has put this country in fine shape. Our wheat and oat crops are looking well—the best prospects we have had for years, and as we have an underground season, with a few showers through the summer, good crops are assured. Many new farmers are coming into the country, who are always welcome, as we need more farmers to develop this fine country. Many silos are being put up over the country, which will make dairying and stock raising more profitable. The farmer also finds hog and poultry raising very profitable.

Land can be bought in this country reasonable and good terms can be made. We invite all who are thinking of making a move to come and see our lands, and get acquainted with our people. Our hotel facilities are the very best, and a hearty welcome is extended to all.

BRIEF HISTORY OF THE TEXAS FEDERATION OF WOMEN'S CLUBS

By MRS. ELI HERTZBERG, San Antonio Texas.

HERE is no break in the history of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs. It is an uninterrupted story of relative progress. Each successive president inherits the whole estate of her predecessor, adds to it if possible, and shapes the policy of administration to meet the conditions of the times. It was in May, 1907, that Mrs. Edward Rotan of Waco, with the help of a few other prominent club women, among them Mrs. J. C. Terrell of Fort Worth, and Miss Eleanor Brackenridge of San Antonio, founded the Texas Federation of Womens' Clubs. This little band of noble women had seen the good wrought by the few individual clubs then in existence, and realized that through organized effort they could be a great power for progress along all lines of uplift.

These good women had in their hearts the visions of justice, mercy, wisdom and tenderness. They hoped through knowledge to cure wrong. They discovered that organization is in truth woman's weapon, and that it is her opportunity for service. Where hitherto woman's service was limited, she has found that through organized effort she can serve her own best by serving the community.

Surely the founders of the Texas Federation builded better than they knew. What a satisfaction must be theirs, to see the seed so unselfishly sown by them for humanity's sake, bring forth such rich results.

Mrs. Edward Rotan, the first president, was most happy in the hearty co-operation of her husband, who saw the great good being accomplished by the club movement. Mr. Rotan engaged the services of a competent governess for their children, so that Mrs. Rotan might go into the different communities in order to organize Women's Clubs.

I bring out this point to show that a great part of the success of the organization can be attributed to the help of some of the good men of Texas.

Nineteen hundred one, the fourth birthday of the Federation, found Mrs. J. C. Terrell, of Fort Worth, a noble woman of strong personality, at the head of affairs. At this time the organization issued its first year book, the object being to effect a closer relation between the clubs, and to furnish the administration a convenient vehicle for communication between the clubs. It was this administration that started the movement which later resulted in the creation of a State Library Commission.

The Administration of 1902-1903 had one of the Nation's greatest women in the President's chair. Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker, of Austin, a woman of high education, an executive of unusual ability, and, above all, a womanly woman of charming personality, stressed educational affairs during her term of office.

It was at this time that various scholarships were created. A Loan Fund of over two thousand dollars was raised to aid talented young women, otherwise financially debarred in taking a course at our State University. Mrs. Pennybacker was later, in 1912, honored by being elected President of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, and is still at this time occupying that office. During this administration the Federation divided the clubs of the State into five districts.

Mrs. E. P. Turner of Dallas, one of Texas' most charming women, ably filled the office of President during 1904-1905. Among the many good works accomplished at that time, the creation of juvenile courts and industrial schools was earnestly championed, as was the placing of good women to act as matrons in prisons.

The next two years saw the President's chair occupied by Mrs. Cone Johnson, of Tyler, one of the South's fairest daughters. This administration featured the cause of the College of Industrial Arts for young women at Denton, and enlisted the co-operation of the clubs in furthering its interests. It also established the Sarah Elizabeth Weaver Kindergarten Scholarship. The civic work made a remarkable record during this time, and gold medals were offered for the best original musical compositions.

Mrs. Joseph B. Dibrell, of Seguin, was the brilliant President in charge of Federation affairs during the following administration. During Mrs. Dibrell's term of office much effective legislative work was done towards bettering laws affecting the women and children of our State. Mothers' Clubs were given marked recognition at this time, a Home and School Club Department being the outcome. Humane education also received fresh impetus.

Mrs. S. J. Wright, of Paris, who had already done effective work in the Federation for the cause of art, was the next President, and her two years were notable for much splendid progress. This administration was largely responsible in influencing a law minimizing the hours of child's labor and the age limit. Another splendid thing was the resolution pledging the support of the Federation in behalf of a bill requiring that the dependent family of the convict be provided for out of the proceeds of his labor.

Mrs. Eli Hertzberg, of San Antonio, succeeded Mrs. Wright as President. The departments of Peace and Political Science were created during her administration. After nine years of hard work on the part of the Federation, to secure improved laws relative to married women's property rights, the Thirty-third Legislature, in session during that time, enacted a law that has materially bettered conditions, though much more remains to be done to perfect this law.

A State Endowment Fund was created during this administration. The Federation also adopted a motto at that time—

"In great things unity,
In small things liberty,
In all things charity."

Mrs. Hertzberg's administration will go down into history as no other, for it was during her term that Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker was elected President of the General Federation.

Mrs. Henry B. Fall, of Houston, succeeded Mrs. Hertzberg, and is the present incumbent. The outlook under her capable leadership is most promising, and no doubt her administration will add many brilliant pages to the already splendid history of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs.

MISS BRACKENRIDGE

MISS M. ELEANOR BRACKENRIDGE came from Indiana to Jackson County, Texas, in her early girlhood. She had just completed her education at a popular girls' school, but while her heart was always filled with a desire to help humanity and a desire for a broader field for women's work, the customs of the times denied her this privilege. She lived quietly on her father's plantation and endured many of the hardships that came with the civil war.

At the close of the war she came with her mother and brother, G. W. Brackenridge, to San Antonio, where her life was spent in the conventional manner of a society woman until women began to organize clubs and then she saw that her opportunity had come. Even before clubs were organized it had been her pleasure to gather young girls in her beautiful home and study with them history and literature.

It was not, however, until the Woman's Club of San Antonio was organized in 1898 that Miss Brackenridge began her public career. She was elected president of this club which was the first department club in Texas and the first club to take up work other than along literary lines. For seven years she was its president and eventually saw its altruistic stand adopted by the federation. Through this active work she became prominent in the State and it was not surprising that when the Girls' College of Industrial Arts was established that she should be appointed one of the three women regents, this being the first time that women were ever appointed on the board of a State Institution.

Miss Brackenridge was also one of the founders of the Mothers' Congress in Texas and is now honorary president.

It would not be possible considering her advanced views as to the position of women that she would be anything but a suffragist. She was one of the first women in Texas to stand for this cause, and is honorary president of the State Suffrage Association, and also president of the Equal Franchise Society of San Antonio.

Her work has been largely along educational lines. Helping girls to secure a practical education is her greatest interest. As chairman of the educational committees both in the Federated Clubs and the D. A. R., she has endeavored to impress upon the organization the importance of teaching to the youth of the country that good citizenship was the greatest patriotism.

A retiring, timid woman, yet she has yielded an influence that is not only felt throughout the great State of Texas, but far beyond its bounds.

AUSTIN—THE CAPITAL CITY OF TEXAS

By AUSTIN CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

AUSTIN was selected as the Capital of Texas in 1839 by a commission appointed by the Republic of Texas. After traveling throughout the broad domain of this Empire State, they finally stood upon the crest of the mountains which overhung the Colorado, where that river breaks from the mountains. Far beneath them the tree tops tossed like waves at sea. They stood entranced. They ascended the hills and surveyed the site for the new capital. The choice had been quickly made, for already nature seemed to have fixed the spot, and it remained for men to do no more than find it, and to build.

Austin is named after Stephen F. Austin, the founder of Americanized Texas. It is in the heart of Texas. It is almost the equidistant point for all sections. Here have been bound the interest of El Paso and of Texarkana; those of Orange and the Panhandle. Here is the river which holds together a State larger than all New England. As the young folks seek this center of educational system, Austin fixes upon them the spirit of the whole of Texas, for which it stands.

Here stands the Capitol in all its dignity, the seventh largest building in the world. A little further on towers the State University, the largest in the South; here is the great Lake Austin, formed by a dam sixty-five feet high, twelve hundred feet long, being one of the engineering marvels of the age. The Colorado bridge spanning the river at Congress Avenue is the finest piece of concrete bridge work in Texas. A new $250,000 postoffice has just been completed. Congress Avenue, the most beautiful street in Texas, with a number of splendidly paved and lighted streets that will compare with any in the Union. Population, 40,000. Bank clearances, 1913, $131,608,482.36. Postal receipts, $154,524.63. Three trunk railroads. Altitude, 650 feet. Average rainfall, 35 inches per year.

Degan, President First State Bank, Lewisville, Texas.

Mr. E. P. Turner was born in Ottumwa, Iowa, February, 1856, commenced telegraphing at the age of 13, moved to Texas in 1871. Was operator and private secretary to H. M. Hoxie, general manager of the I. & G. N. Railway at Houston, who placed him in the ticket office there in 1874. Attended Centennial at Philadelphia in 1876, and on return went with the T. & P. as ticket agent at Jefferson and Fort Worth. As a result of the trip to Philadelphia adopted the motto, "No Trouble to Answer Questions." Went to Dallas as city passenger and ticket agent in 1879, and has been there ever since, with the exception of 18 months at Houston as ticket agent for the G., H. & S. A. and the T. & N. O. Married in Jefferson in 1878, to Miss Adella Kelsey.

Mr. Turner was general passenger agent of the Texas & Pacific from February, 1894, to October, 1911. In November, 1911, he undertook the Herculean task of straightening out and reviving the J. Mercer Carter franchises in the City of Dallas, which had been in litigation for several years. He wanted them as a basis for an interurban system and after nearly two years work succeeded and organized two companies. One the Dallas Southwestern Traction Co., to build to West Dallas, Cement City, Mansfield, Venus, Alvarado and Cleburne to Glen Rose, a very promising health and pleasure resort in Somerville County. Also the Dallas Northwestern Traction Co., to build through Denton to Krum and Slidell, and eventually on to Wichita Falls. Has secured the charter for both lines and has incorporated with a strong board of directors. He has secured most all of the private rights of way, finished the preliminary surveys, estimates of cost, etc., and has commenced selling preferred stock, after which he expects to place bonds for enough more to build and thoroughly equip both lines. These lines are very important to Dallas, as they run through a very rich and densely populated country and being a new trade territory to Dallas. Mr. Turner was elected president of both companies. As general passenger agent for the Texas & Pacific Railway, Mr. Turner was very active in the development of West Texas, and the Pecos and Toyah Valleys, Mineral Wells.

CORPUS CHRISTI TEXAS

Why have we sold on an average of $2,500,000 yearly in Southwest Texas land in the last four years? Our motto tells the story—"THE TRUTH IS GOOD ENOUGH FOR TEXAS." Our satisfied customers are our best assets. TEXAS is just on the threshold of an unprecedented development which will be unparalleled in its progressive stride and commercial activity. Texas, with less than one-sixth of her total domain in cultivation, easily leads every State in the American Union in agriculture, and in 1913 increasing her gross wealth to the staggering figures of considerable over $1,000,000,000, standing first over the world in the shipment of cotton and only second to New York in grand totals of export and imports. Her banks show resources of $600,000,000.

The granaries of America and one-fourth of the territory of the United States are tributary to our Gulf ports, as the shortest direct route, with a (United States) foreign trade annually of $4,175,733,075 gives a masterful and incomparable position to Texas, augmented by the completion of the great Panama Canal will cause Corpus Christi and every city, parcel and part of her imperial domain, to respond to its commercial witchery.

We have in Texas 90,000,000 acres of fertile land lying idle for the responsive touch of the plow that before no distant day will rise in value by leaps and bounds. The Panama Canal will cause our Coast Country and its cities to be the mistress of the Seas, and as if by magic palatial homes will dot the shores of beautiful Nueces Bay and the entire Coast Country, and the agricultural section will be teeming with happy and prosperous farms. We invite you to TEXAS. There is no spot in her imperial domain that you could make a serious mistake in a conservative investment. We particularly invite you to

(with correspondents in the principal cities of the United States), where every kind of information will be cheerfully given as to the marvelous development and possibilities of Southwest Texas, an empire of matchless opportunities. California can boast no tree or flower that cannot be grown here, for the mild climate is equally delightful and our soil superior to hers. Because of this uniformity of temperature during all seasons, this section has become a great Winter Resort for Northern people, and a Summer Resort for the Texans and people of adjoining States.

CHIROPRACTIC

KI-RO-PRAC-TIC.

(Greek word, meaning to do by hand.)

By OLIVER W. WILCOX.

Is the adjustment of the vertebrae to relieve pressure on nerves, thereby restoring to the nerve centers in the brain and spinal cord, the control of the mechanical, chemical and healing activities of all the organs and tissues of the body.

Is comparatively a new science which today is only known in communities where it has accomplished seemingly marvelous results in the elimination of disease. For chiropractic has found the cause of the disease and the art of removing it by adjustments of the spine.

Chiropractic is based upon these principles. That for the simplest of its activities the body is dependent upon the brain and nervous system. The brain is the dynamo that generates the vital force or nerve impulse. The nerve is the wire that carries it. This tremendous ramification of microscopic fibres which impels every movement and regulates every bodily function, is ultimately centered in the brain and the vitality and activity of every organ, tissue and cell of the body is maintained and controlled by an inherent force or energy which is transformed or individualized by the brain and then transmitted to its respective parts in the form of nerve impulses through the nerves. That all nerves originate in the brain converge on its base, forming the spinal cord, which passes out of the skull through an opening called the Foramen Magnum into and through the center of the spinal column. From the spinal cord nerves immerge through small openings between each pair of vertebra on both sides of the spinal column, from whence they proceed to the tissues and organs into which they terminate.

That when the transmission of nerve impulses is normal both in volume and rapidity of delivery—or in other words, when 100 per cent of nerve impulses reaches each organ and tissue of the body all is normal. And that the blood is not the life of the body, but is only the common food carrier of nutriment of which the system has assimilated in process of digestion.

The Vasomotor nerves governing the calibre of the blood vessels and by causing them to dilate or contract regulates the supply of blood to all parts, thereby furnishing heat and nutrition to the organs and tissues of the body. Therefore, one may readily see the importance of nerve impingement, and also the direct connection and relation of the spine to the rest of the body.

Chiropractic affords an exact and scientific method of determining the position of any vertebra which on account of its misalignment is responsible for nerve impingement and an original unique and most effective manner for correcting this abnormal condition. Also in a way that the most modest need not take offense.

Chiropractic has been the means of eliminating all manner of diseases, both acute and chronic, as affections of the head, throat and lungs, heart, stomach and kidney, and liver trouble, female disorders, blood and skin diseases. Are you sick? If so, it is because of spinal impingement.

Chiropractic adjustments remove the cause, nature removes the effects.

If you want health and happiness comply with the Creator and His Creation, His divine laws and laws of nature; and your soul will be full for ever and ever.
